Disaster Planning Board Workshop 2023

The Kings Point Disaster Planning Committee recently organized a highly informative workshop on May 18th, 2023, aimed at providing valuable insights to Board Members and POCs regarding Disaster Planning for each Association in Kings Point. This workshop proved to be an excellent platform for distributing resources essential to assist Association Boards in formulating customized disaster plans that cater to the unique needs of their residents. The event emphasized the significance of proactive planning and preparedness in safeguarding the community's well-being during future disasters in Kings Point.

comprehensive workshop covered a wide range of topics, specifically focusing on the key elements to be included in an Association Disaster Preparedness Plan. Attendees gained a clear understanding of the role and responsibilities of the Association Board and Kings Point residents, both before, during, and after a disaster. Furthermore, the workshop shed light on the expected support and assistance that can be anticipated from the Master Association, FirstService Residential, and Vesta in the event of a disaster striking the Kings Point community. Participants also had the opportunity to learn about the intricacies of the cleanup process pre and post-storm, the differentiation between evacuation and flood scenarios, as well as the significance of weather watches and warnings. Additionally, crucial insights were provided on what to expect in the aftermath of a storm. Undoubtedly, one of the most pivotal aspects of the workshop was the exploration of the thoughtprovoking theme, "Should I Stay, or Should I Go?" The Disaster Planning Committee strongly encouraged community members to contemplate and make an informed decision regarding their course of action during a disaster. By deciding early whether to shelter in place or evacuate, residents can effectively implement their plans with minimal notice, ensuring their safety and that of their loved ones. The Committee remains committed assisting Associations developing their specific disaster plans. If you require further guidance or support, please guidance or support, please do not hesitate to reach out by emailing the Committee Chair at mmeeker3@tampabay.rr.com. Evacuation Zones vs. Flood Zones Two different designations for two different purposes Source: Hillsborough County Emergency Management

Though they are often mistaken for each other, Flood Zones and Evacuation Zones are two very different things that measure very different conditions. So what's the difference? And when do you use them? Here is what you need to know.

Flood Zones

These federally identified zones indicate a property's risk for flooding at any time of the year, including as a result of heavy or steady rain. This zone has nothing to do with hurricanes or other emergencies, and everything to do with your property insurance and building requirements. Nationally, these zones are classified as Zones A (Special Flood Hazard Area), B, C, D, V and X. Every property is in a flood zone.

When to check the Flood Zone Map:

- You own, rent, or are buying a new property and don't know if you need flood insurance
- You refinance or get a mortgage You need building permits for work on your property

Evacuation Zones

These are the areas that officials may order evacuated during a hurricane. These zones are mapped by the National Hurricane Center and indicate areas that will be affected by storm surge (stormdriven waves that can inundate a community and threaten lives). Zones in Hillsborough County are identified from A - E.

When to check the Evacuation Zone Map:

- Before hurricane season to make sure your family is prepared
- During a hurricane or major storm, to know if you should evacuate
- You live in a low-lying area or near a stream, pond or body of water.

Dear Residents,

We would like to bring to your attentionsome important information regarding the coverage provided by the Condominium Association's Property Insurance Policy.

The statutes and laws in the state of Florida that govern Condominiums and Insurance are very specific to what the unit owner's responsibilities are and what the Condominium's responsibilities are. It is standard practice and highly recommended that unit owners purchase insurance for the contents and interiors of their units. This is not something that is included in your closing or your mortgage; it is something that needs to be purchased by the unit owner to protect everything inside your apartment. The condominium insurance policy only covers the common areas and inside of the units from the sheet rock back.

The best way to understand what the responsibility of the Association is to know what is NOT covered by the Association's property policy.

According to Florida Law (F.S 718.111(11)(f)3) the Association's policy must exclude:

- All personal property within the unit (clothes, computers, electronics etc.)
- Floor, wallcoverings, and ceiling coverings

Light fixtures

- Electrical fixtures, appliances, water heaters, water filters, built-in cabinets, and counter tops
- Window Treatments Including: curtains, drapes, blinds, hardware, and similar window treatments components

Any items not specifically addressed and or mentioned by the Florida Statute, coverage would be then determined by the provisions of the Condominium Declarations or Bylaws or case law.

A Message From USI to the Residents About Insurance

Unit Owner vs Association Hazard Insurance Coverage Areas This diagram is provided for illustration purposes only and should not be solely relied upon as the basis for insurance. We recommend you review Florida Condominium Statute 718 and your specific condominium documents for updated insurance and maintenance responsibilities.

Such property and any insurance thereupon is the responsibility of the unit owner. You are not required to purchase insurance by law, and by not having insurance you choose to self-insure (meaning paying out of your own pocket).

There are personal insurance policies available to cover the abovementioned property. Also, these policies provide coverage to provide payment for negligent acts against a Third Party's property or bodily injuries. These types of policies are called "Condominium Unit Owners Coverage (HO6).

These personal insurance policies come in handy especially when "Water Damaaes" arise from bursting pipes or backed up toilets. Sometimes when these events occur it's very difficult to determine who is ultimately responsible for the damage and in many cases each Unit Owner has to take care of their damages on their own.

Example: Toilet backs up causing damage to the unit where it occurred and two units below. The units have wood floor damage, carpet, furniture, cabinets. These items are not covered by the Condominium Association's property policy and if nobody is found negligent each unit is responsible for their own damaged property.

Other scenarios in which Water Damage can occur and nobody may be found negligent: Pipe Burst, Sprinkler Discharge, Fire Fighters response and action.

Having a personal insurance policy can alleviate the headache of not knowing what to do. The insurance company can coordinate payment with all the other parties or other insurance companies involved or simply pay the claim to the insured unit regardless of who is at fault.

We recommend that you contact an Insurance Agent if you currently don't carry a personal policy to protect the property NOT covered by the Association's policy.

What Do Florida Homeowners Need to Know about Hurricane Insurance?

Homeowners insurance can cover your property if it is damaged by high winds or falling objects, but; it does not cover flood damage. This is true even if the flood was the direct result of a covered hurricane. Since the risk of hurricanes is so high in Florida, many insurers require property owners to purchase a special hurricane endorsement as part of their home insurance policy.

Without this endorsement, damage caused by a storm that has been named a hurricane, may not be covered. By having a comprehensive homeowners insurance policy and supplementing it with flood insurance, you can cover your property and protect your finances in a few different

Homeowners insurance: This can provide coverage for hurricanerelated damage to the structure of your home (dwelling coverage) and to the personal property you have inside it (contents coverage). This coverage excludes flood damage. Your home insurance policy also includes loss of use insurance. This can cover additional living expenses if you must evacuate prior to a storm or if your house is severely damaged and you must live elsewhere while repairs are made.

Flood insurance: This is designed to cover flood damage to the structure of your home and to your personal property. These policies take 30 days to go into effect so you will want to be sure to purchase your coverage before a storm is headed your way. Understanding what is (or is not) covered in your homeowner's or renter's insurance policy is a necessity. Take time now to learn about the risks you may face and build confidence that you are properly protected.

Make Sure you check to see if you have adequate insurance to cover your property in the Event of a Disaster.

Top 5 Tips to Protect Your Pet in Unforeseen Emergencies Source: Hillsborough County Emergency Management

Taking precautions for your pets in the event of a disaster doesn't have to be difficult. It can be easily done in the comfort of your home. These key pointers from the Pet Resource Center will help you care for your pets before an emergency arises.

Top Five Most Important Tips:

- 1. Make sure that your pet's County registration tag is up-to-date. If it is expired or lost, bring his or her rabies certificate to the Pet Resource Center and get a replacement.
- 2. Create a disaster kit and I.D. packet for your pet. The kit should include a seven-day supply of food and water per pet, waste disposal items, pet medication, and comfort items like their favorite toys and blankets.The I.D. packet needs to contain your contact information, veterinarian information, the microchip and County pet registration tag numbers, and medical needs
- 3. Arrange a safe and comfortable place to stay with your pet during an unforeseen crisis, like a family member's or friend's house, or a petfriendly hotel.
- 4. Get a cage/carrier that's easy to transport and large enough for your pet to stand up and move around

5. Public pet-friendly shelters are available in Hillsborough County, but they should be used ONLY as a last resort. Learn here about what to expect at these local shelters.

If you must go to a pet friendly shelter, here are some important considerations:

The County's pet friendly shelters are equipped to handle dogs and cats only. Limited space is available. Your pet will be housed separately from you and you will have limited access to visit your pet. You are responsible for the care and well-being of your animal. You will be scheduled a minimum of twice a day to feed, clean, and walk your pet.

Pet Friendly Shelter Packing List

- Crate/carrier large enough for your pet to stand up and turn around
- Photo of owner and pet together
- Food and water supply for a minimum 7 days, along with bowls
- · Leash, collar, and muzzle (if needed)
- Pet medications Toys or blankets

Registration Open for Special Needs Shelters Source: Hillsborough County Emergency Management

Hillsborough County residents with special medical needs can register for special needs shelters through the Hillsborough County Health Department. While residents should have their own emergency plans in place, a special needs shelters and special needs transportation serve as back-up options for those residents and their caregivers, registration is required.

Residents should complete the application and submit to see if they qualify for a special needs shelter. The form is available in English and Spanish and can be faxed or mailed to health officials. Health Department officials assess the registrations and identify people who will need attention beyond the assistance they might receive at a Red Cross Shelfer.

Additional help is available to residents, including:

- Someone with a stable medical condition that requires periodic observation, assessment, or maintenance.
- A person who depends on electricity for medical equipment, such as an oxygen machine or feeding tube.
- An evacuee who needs dialysis. Someone who, in a health
- expert's opinion, might not fare well in a general population shelter.

Remember, Registration before a storm expedites entry to the special needs shelter and assists shelters with planning so sign up early! Residents not registered prior to a storm will be triaged onsite to determine if they meet eligibility.

Special Needs Registration Forms and Pet Shelter Information is available on the kpmaster.com website or the Hillsborough County Site; search special needs shelter. Up-to-date pet records

Disaster-Related Cons and Scams Source: myfloridalegal.com

HOW TO AVOID

AFTER A NATURAL DISASTER

Unfortunately, disasters natural often bring out con artists and scammers hoping to profit off people's misfortune. Falling for cons and scams can create a financial disaster following the natural disaster. Here are some common cons and scams to watch out for following a natural disaster:

Home repair scams

Following damaging storms (high winds, hail, and tornadoes), hurricanes and even earthquakes, people impersonating home repair businesses and roofing companies will visit affected neighborhoods and offer to repair damage. Red flags that you are dealing with a scammer and not a legitimate business include:

- One-day-only discounts
- Aggressive sales pitches
- Requirement of upfront payment You've never heard of the company, and it does not have a
- local, physical address. They cannot produce a business license or written information about the company.

Never hire a contractor on the spot. Before hiring anyone to do any work on your home, get your insurance company to survey the damage. You can also verify that the contractor is legitimate by checking with the Better Business Bureau.

A good contractor will always provide you with a written estimate of the cost of the repairs on your home. Though some contractors require a deposit to begin work, it should never be more than 25 percent of the total estimate, and you should not pay anything until the materials needed to complete the job are delivered to your home.

Impersonation of government or insurance company representatives Many people are desperate following disasters, particularly if they do not have insurance. Unfortunately, some con artists pose as government officials from agencies such as FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency), the Department of Homeland Security, and/or the Department of Health and Human Services, that are responsible for helping disaster victims. These con artists will ask you to share your identification, social security information, and other personal information that can be used to steal your identity. Never give out your personal information to a government employee before verifying they are in fact with the Government. Remember, there are no fees when applying for governmental assistance following a disaster. Any request for fees is fraud. Con artists will also pose as insurance claims adjusters or representatives of insurance companies. Ask for identification to make sure you are giving information to an agent from your insurance company.

Donation scams

Following disasters, people want to give. Even those directly affected by disasters may want to give financially to help those worse off. Unfortunately, scammers and con artists know this. They pose as charitable organizations helping victims of a disaster. Red flags that you are dealing with a fake charity include:

- Requests for donations to be sent over a wire transfer.
- Requests for cash donations to be sent through the mail.
- An aggressive push for a donation
- Calls from an organization you've never heard of or one that has a name close to a better-known charitable organization.
- Reluctance to give a call back number if you say you'd like some "time to think about making the donation" or that "You want to discuss the donation with another family member."
- Starts the call with a "thank you" for a pledge you don't remember making.
